Sirius Announces New Area Sales Manager

IBM's Largest eServer™ Reseller Promotes Experienced Sales Professional to Manage Southeast Region

Atlanta – November 8, 2005 – Deborah Bannworth, Sirius Vice President of Sales, Eastern Region, named Judy Addison as the new Area Sales Manager for Sirius' Southeast region, which covers Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama, and Mississippi.

"At both IBM® and Sirius, I've benefited from strong leaders," said Addison. "Now I am looking forward to using my consultative sales and management experience to provide sales leadership for a great team of Account Executives in the Southeast."

Residing in Jacksonville, Florida, Addison joined Sirius in 2003 and has been one of the leading Sirius Account Executives, earning several sales awards. As an Account Executive, she facilitated the largest pSeries solution in the Southeast region, cultivated relationships with several new customers, worked closely with IBM local teams and brands, and maintained certifications in IBM technologies.

Addison's experience at Sirius follows a career of thirty-one years at IBM in service, sales, and management positions. As a Client Manager, a Senior ITS Principal, and Senior Customer Service Manager one thing always stood out – Addison's commitment to results and customer satisfaction. Addison is a technology professional who possesses a wide breadth of experience and a strong commitment to excellence.

"We are fortunate to have Judy's talents utilized in the position of Area Sales Manager," said Bannworth. "Our customers and Account Executives in the Southeast region have seen the value she brings to each situation. Her attitude has created a positive momentum, and we look forward to great things from Addison and her team."
